TABLE 21.—PROPORTION PER 1,000 at various GROUPS of AGES of UNMARRIED, MARRIED, WIDOWED, and of MARRIED and WIDOWED FEMALES ENGAGED in OCCUPATIONS; in ADMINISTRATIVE COUNTIES, COUNTY BOROUGHS, METROPOLITAN BOROUGHS, and in URBAN DISTRICTS of which the population exceeded 50,000 persons, 1911.

NOTES—(1) The Table may be read thus :—In Bedfordshire 743 per 1,000 of the Unmarried Females aged 25 to 35 years, 166 per 1,000 of the Married Females, 718 per 1,000 of the Widowed Females, and 176 per 1,000 of the Married and Widowed Females at the same ages were returned as engaged in Occupations.
(2) The rates for Widowed at ages under 25-, and for Married at ages 15-20 and 75 and upwards are calculated on very small numbers, and are therefore of but little value for the purpose of comparison.
(3) Where "0" is inserted in this Table it indicates that none of the females of that age and condition were occupied.
(4) The figures for the Administrative Counties exclude those for the County Boroughs, but include those for the other large towns.

TABLE 26.—OCCUPATIONS of MALES and FEMALES at each of the FOUR CENSUSES, 1881, 1891, 1901, and 1911.

TABLE 27.—OCCUPATIONS (Condensed List) of PERSONS, MALES, and FEMALES, AGED 10 YEARS and UPWARDS, and PROPORTIONS per MILLION of such POPULATION ENGAGED in the SEVERAL OCCUPATIONS, 1881, 1891, 1901, and 1911.

TABLE 25.—DIFFERENCES in CLASSIFICATION of OCCUPATIONS as between 1911 and 1901 and as between 1901 and 1891.

NOTE.—The complete list of Orders, Sub-Orders, and Headings adopted in 1911 and 1901 respectively are shown side by side in the Table, together with the changes as between the various headings. The classification was to a considerable extent recast in 1901, the arrangement as to Orders and Sub-Orders differing greatly from that in 1891, so that it is only possible to show in the Table the equivalent in the classification of 1891 to that of 1901. The reference numbers to the headings of the 1911 classification are given in column 1 and throughout the Table in ordinary type and those relating to the 1901 classification in column 4 and throughout the Table in italics. The principal changes of classification are set out in this Table, but it should be borne in mind that the figures under the various headings and groups of headings may also be affected by (1) changes in the mode of filling-up the Schedules, (2) changes in the form of the Schedule, and (3) changes in the method of Tabulation. (See the remarks on pp. xi. and xii.)

TABLE 26.—OCCUPATIONS of MALES and FEMALES at each of the FOUR CENSUSES, 1881, 1891, 1901, and 1911.

NOTE.—The principal changes of classification which affect the figures for purposes of comparison as between 1911 and 1901 and as between 1901 and 1891 are given in Table 25, while the classification of 1881 agrees with that for 1891 except where indicated. It has been found necessary, while preserving all the headings in the classification adopted in 1911—numbered from 1 to 472—to re-arrange some of them for combination with others, so that the consecutive order is not completely maintained, and those headings which appear out of their proper Order or Sub-Order are printed in italics. The figures printed in French type (e.g., 21,663) are not comparable with those in ordinary type for the particular headings against which they appear, but may serve to furnish approximately comparable figures for groups of occupations. There are, however, reasons, either in the somewhat different constitution of similar headings at the different censuses or in the manner in which persons were described (more accurately in 1901 than in previous Censuses, and again more accurately in 1911 than in 1901), which affect to some extent, though not very seriously as a rule, the value of the figures for comparative purposes. The fact that a considerable number of persons, who in 1881 and 1891 would have been returned under the indefinite term of "Labourer," "Mechanic," etc., were in 1901 and 1911 described more precisely, affects not only the numbers under such indefinite headings but also those under some definite headings, whilst the addition to the 1911 Schedule of a column for "Industry or Service" has had the further effect of causing transfer between some of the definite headings. (See the remarks on pp. xi. and xii.).

In 1901 and 1911 many of the headings of Orders IX. to XXII. relate to Makers only, while in 1881 and 1891 similar headings included both Makers and Dealers; these cases are distinguished thus, †.

A new instruction in the 1911 Schedule has had the effect of greatly increasing the return of women regularly engaged in assisting relatives in trade or business, and this has seriously affected the figures under many headings for Dealers for purposes of comparison as between 1901 and 1911.

The figures for 1881 include children under 10 years of age who were returned as occupied, but the numbers were so small that their inclusion may be disregarded.

* The usual order of the occupational headings, as shown by the reference numbers and by the numbers of the headings in the Sub-Order, has been departed from in this instance.

(a) The numbers under the different headings must not be regarded as strictly comparable, owing to revision of the classification of the subsidiary occupations comprised in them.
(b) Railway Engine Cleaners, included under this heading at the last three Censuses, were in 1881 referred to heading No. 87.
(c) See Note (b).
(e) See Note (h) on page 551.
(g) Figures not comparable, as the heading includes Warehousemen (undefined).
(h) See the remarks on pages xlv. and xlvi.
(i) For purposes of comparison headings 118–123 should be amalgamated (see the remarks on page xlviii.), but excluding from No. 118 the males under 15 years and all the females, the latter having been much more completely returned in 1911 than in 1901, whilst in 1881 and 1891 they were included among the Unoccupied (heading No. 472).
(k) In 1881 all Fishermen who were present in England and Wales at the date of the Census, and all those who came into Port during the succeeding 14 days, were included under this heading; in 1891, 1901, and 1911, only those Fishermen who were either enumerated on the night of the Census, or came into Port the next day, were included in the Returns.

* The usual order of the occupational headings, as shown by the reference numbers and by the numbers of the headings in the Sub-Order, has been departed from in this instance.

(a) The classification was remodelled in 1901 as regards Metals, Machines, Implements, and Conveyances. The comparative figures set out against the various headings are the best that can be given, but it should be specially noted that the numbers are affected not only by the differences in classification, which are set out in Table 25, but also by the changes in the method of return of occupations referred to in the Note at the head of this Table. Thus, for example, the advance in the number of male Erectors, Fitters, Turners, from 87,510 in 1891 to 159,173 in 1901, is doubtlessly in part gained at the expense of other headings in this Order or of the indefinite headings in Order XXII., while the decline in the number of male Blacksmiths, Strikers, from 136,752 in 1901 to 125,305 in 1911, is associated with transfer to other headings brought about by additional information given in the "industry" column of the 1911 schedule. (See also the remarks on page lxii.)

(b) The figures for 1881 and 1891 include Whitesmiths, who were referred to No. 212 in 1901, and to Nos. 260 and 212 in 1911. Whitesmiths were shown separately in 1881, when the numbers were as follow :—

—	Total.	Under 15.	Above 15.
Males	8,212	172	8,040
Females	41	1	40

(f) Approximately comparable figures may be obtained by the addition of headings numbered 170, 210, and 212 (together with Nos. 159 and 165).

(h) (i) (j) (k) Comparable figures can only be obtained by grouping the headings within each bracket.

(l) Ship Chandlers are included in the figures for 1881, but not for the succeeding Censuses. In 1891, when they were shown separately, only 727 males and 49 females were so returned.

(m) See the remarks on page lxxv.

* The usual order of the occupational headings, as shown by the reference numbers and by the numbers of the headings in the Sub-Order, has been departed from in this instance.

(a) See Note (b).
(b) The figures for 1881 and 1891 include Fellmongers, who in 1901 and 1911 were referred to Nos. 308, 309, 310, and 315, according to the application of the term in various districts.
(c) See Note (b).
(e) See Note (k) on page 547.
(f) See Note (h).
(h) A few Music Printers, referred to "Printers" in 1891, 1901, and 1911, are included in the numbers for 1881.
(j) The remarks on page xcvi. as to unreliability of figures for purposes of comparison, according to processes in Cotton Manufacture, also apply to Wool and Worsted Manufacture and to Silk Manufacture.
(k) In 1901 and 1911 Dealers were entirely excluded; in 1891 Dealers in Fancy Goods (Textile) were included, and in 1881 the Dealers were not in any way separated from the Makers.
(n) See the remarks on page civ.
(o) For purposes of comparison as between 1881 and 1891 and the two later Censuses, the Male Dealers under this heading are taken as being engaged in selling the manufactures included under Nos. 378 to 380, and the Females are taken as being Milliner Shopkeepers and Assistants, who, if the classification as to Makers and Dealers had not been altered, would have been referred to No. 381.
(p) Owing to the numerous changes in classification the figures or groups of figures under the headings marked (p) are scarcely comparable as between the two earlier and the two later Censuses. Fairer comparison between those Censuses may be made by grouping together headings 381, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, and 390, with the addition in the case of Females only of headings 382 and 467.
(r) Dealers in Gloves, Buttons, Artificial Flowers, Umbrellas, Parasols, Sticks, included in 1901 and 1911, and, with the exception of those in Gloves and Artificial Flowers, in 1891, but not in 1881.

INDUSTRIES OR SERVICES.

TABLES 28 and 29.

TABLE 28.—ENGLAND AND WALES.—OCCUPATIONS of MALES and FEMALES in various INDUSTRIES or SERVICES; Summary of OCCUPATIONAL DISTRIBUTION, 1911.

TABLE 29.—ENGLAND AND WALES.—OCCUPATIONS of MALES and FEMALES in various INDUSTRIES or SERVICES, showing AGE DISTRIBUTION and LOCAL DISTRIBUTION, 1911.

NOTE.—(1) The following Tables, numbered 28 and 29, give the results of the tabulation of the occupations of the people in relation to the Industries or Services in which they were employed, supplementing in this respect the information given in the preceding tables, in which the classification is partly by personal occupations, and partly by industries or services which may comprise many distinct occupations. Headings are provided in the classification for a number of occupations, such as Clerks, Messengers, Porters, Carmen, Engine Drivers (which are common to many trades, industries or services), for certain professions, and for workmen (including labourers) following distinct trades, but persons other than those for whose occupation a special heading is provided are classed in the occupation tables to the manufacture, trade, or service with which they are connected. (See paragraph 2 of the general note to the occupation tables, page 1.)

(2) At previous censuses the question on the schedule was framed with a view to obtaining a definite statement of the personal occupation (see pages vii.–ix.); a similar form of question was repeated at the present census, and the same general principles of classification were followed in order to secure comparability. This classification, though meeting most requirements, does not show the total numbers of persons connected with the various industries or services, and to remedy this defect an additional column (column 11) was inserted in the schedule for the "Industry or Service with which worker is connected." Reference to the instructions for filling up this column—given in the schedule which is reprinted on pages 852-3, and in the Memorandum to Enumerators (see pages 858–60)—will show the scope of the inquiry, and may give some idea of the difficulty of obtaining the required information.

(3) The industrial classification has been made on the assumption that the industry or service is indicated by the "nature of the employer's business," such an assumption being necessary in order to avoid the overlapping and confusion that would otherwise occur. For example, a person employed by a soap manufacturer to make cardboard boxes has been classified to the industry "soap making," but if employed by a cardboard box manufacturer in making boxes for the soap trade, to the industry cardboard box making. This necessary limitation has not been observed universally in filling up the schedules (see, for example, the note on page 652 with reference to Fishing), and it is impossible to say to what extent the figures are affected thereby. In the case of Brokers, Agents, and Factors who frequently carry on business on their own account or for principals engaged in different kinds of business it was impracticable to tabulate any information as to the business with which they were connected. In the textile trades, bleaching, printing, dyeing. etc., are largely carried on as separate businesses, and are therefore classified separately from the manufacture. In the case of workers in the employ of firms carrying on two or more industries the information given on the schedule had to be accepted, but it is possible that in a number of cases the personal occupation given in column 10 of the schedule was not auxiliary to the business given in column 11 as that of the employer; thus a coke burner returned as employed by a colliery owner had to be regarded as an additional worker under "Coal Mining," though possibly engaged in one of two or more separate industries carried on by his employers.

(4) Considerable difficulty was experienced in regard to persons engaged in the service of the National Government and of Local Authorities. In many cases, notwithstanding the instructions on the schedule and in the enumerators' memorandum, the only information given in column 11 of the schedule was that the person was in "Government" or "Corporation" employment. This is especially noticeable in the case of labourers and artizans in government service (see page 584), many of whom should doubtless be referred to one or other of the government manufacturing industries which are shown separately.

(5) In some kinds of undertakings, e.g., schools, gas works, tramways, harbours, docks, etc., which may be controlled either privately or by a Local Authority, the necessary distinction was not always made in the schedules, and the omission had to be supplied as far as possible by inquiry of the local officers or by consulting books of reference.

(6) Another cause of confusion lies in the indefiniteness of nomenclature as applied to industries; thus a worker might be quite uncertain whether to describe his employer as a "Printer" or as a "Manufacturing Stationer." Moreover, a term in general use may be used locally in a somewhat different sense, as for example "Iron Foundry," which is sometimes used to describe works where General Engineering and Machine Making is carried on. For these reasons some industries which are shown separately in the tables are also shown in combination.

(7) The distinction between "Makers" and "Dealers," which is made as far as possible in classifying occupations, cannot be carried to the same extent in the case of industries, both making and dealing being frequently combined in the same business. Thus, for example, plumbers and gasfitters are employed by ironmongers, and in such cases it has been necessary to classify the "makers" as additional workers to the "dealer" heading. In many manufacturing businesses the sales department is quite distinct from the producing departments, and a clerk, for example, may be permanently employed in one department or another; such employees were, however, usually returned as working for manufacturers and were classed accordingly, although their work may have been solely in connexion with sales. Commercial Travellers, even when returned as employed by a manufacturer, have, however, been assigned to the "dealer" headings relating to the commodities in which they dealt (see page xxxvii.).

(8) In the case of employees of firms engaged in two or more independent industries, the personal occupation may not be followed solely in connexion with any one of them, and the classification under the principal industry is made on the assumption that the several industries have been returned in the order of their importance (see instruction 14, page 859).

(9). The numbers of domestic indoor servants included as additional workers in many of the industries or services are those who, according to the rule stated on page xxix., were assumed to be not in private employment.

(10) In the arrangement of Tables 28 and 29, the list of Industries or Services follows, with slight modifications, the order of the occupations in the occupation tables. By showing as separate headings in the industry tables those occupations, such as clerks and commercial travellers, which are not related to any one industry or service, all the numbers in the occupation tables are accounted for in Table 28 in columns 2 and 25, and in Table 29 in the section "(1) Number classified to Industry or Service in occupation tables." In some cases Industries or Services are divided to show "National Government," "Local Authority," or "Railway Company" services as distinct from others, but in all cases the total number of workers in the Industry or Service is also shown. A summary of all employees of the National Government (excluding the Army and Navy), of Local Authorities, and of Railway Companies is given on pages 590–593 (Table 28), and pages 840–851 (Table 29).

(11) The very large number of combinations of personal occupations and industries made it necessary to condense within narrow limits the number of personal occupations for which details could be given in the industry tables, and it was considered desirable to classify the "additional workers" in the several industries into three main groups, viz:—

Group A, relating to persons engaged principally in production, repair, or maintenance, and comprising workers (other than dealers) in the occupations of Orders IX. to XXI., and in Sub-Orders 3 and 5 of Order XXII.

Group C, relating to persons engaged in domestic offices or services (Order IV.) and in board, lodging, catering, etc. (Order XX., Sub-Order 4).

Group B, relating to persons engaged in occupations other than those in Groups A and C, and comprising mainly those in commercial occupations (Order V. and Dealers in Orders IX.–XXII.), conveyance (Order VI.), and professional occupations (Order III.), together with a few in agriculture (Order VII.).

All the additional workers are shown in Table 28 under their respective groups in columns 3 to 20 for males and columns 26 to 31 for females, the totals for each sex being shown in columns 21 and 32. Thus the totals of columns 2 and 21 and of columns 25 and 32 in this Table show the gross totals of males and females in each industry or service. From these totals are deducted the numbers classified to the occupations comprised in each industry or service, but following such occupations as "additional workers" in connexion with some other industry or service. Similarly in Table 29 the total of sections (I.) and (II.) is the gross total in each industry or service, and the net total is shown as the result of deducting the number in Section (I.) included as additional workers in other industries or services.

(12) It is necessary to point out that when several industries or services are shown separately and are also combined, as in the case of Ironfounding, Boiler Making, Engineering and Machine Making, the total of additional workers within the group is reduced, but the net total is unaffected; thus, an ironfounder may be an "additional worker" to a boiler maker, and a boiler maker to an ironfounder, but neither is an additional worker if the industry taken comprises both occupations.

(13) The local divisions shown in Table 29 were suggested by those given in Board of Trade publications, and were adopted after consultation with that Department as being the most suitable with regard both to industrial conditions and the necessary limits of the table.

(14) The references to occupational headings relate to the arrangement of Orders (Roman numerals), Sub-Orders (French type), and Headings (ordinary type) of the occupational classification (see Table 1). In the list of occupations the male designations only are given for convenience, except where the occupations are exclusively followed by females.

INSTRUCTIONS for filling up the Columns headed "PROFESSION or OCCUPATION."

COLUMN 10.

1. DESCRIPTION OF PERSONAL OCCUPATION — Describe the Occupation fully in Column 10. If more than one Occupation is followed, state that by which living is mainly earned.

2. DEALERS, SHOPKEEPERS OR SHOP ASSISTANTS as distinct from MAKERS, PRODUCERS OR REPAIRERS.—All such persons should be so described as to leave no doubt whether they are Dealers or Makers. In many cases "Tailors," "Bootmakers," "Hatters," "Watchmakers," "Goldsmiths," "Silversmiths," "Jewellers," "Chemists," "Bakers," "Seedsmen," "Florists," etc., and their Assistants are not Makers or Producers; in such cases the word "Dealer," "Shopkeeper," or "Shop Assistant" should be added to the occupational name. A person who both makes and deals should be described as "Maker," if chiefly Maker, or "Dealer," if chiefly Dealer.

3. OUT OF WORK.—If out of work or disengaged at the time of the Census, the usual occupation must be stated.

4. THE OCCUPATIONS OF WOMEN engaged in any business or profession, including women regularly engaged in assisting relatives in trade or business, must be fully stated. No entry should be made in the case of wives, daughters, or other female relatives wholly engaged in domestic duties at home.

5. CHILDREN AT SCHOOL AND STUDENTS.—For all persons over ten years of age attending school write "School," and for those attending colleges, evening schools, or other instructional classes, or receiving instruction privately, write "Student." If studying for any profession, state the profession, as "Law Student," "Medical Student."
If attending school or other classes half time or part time only, write "School part time," or "Student part time."
If also engaged in any employment state the employment, as "School, Newsboy"; "School, Grocer's Errand Boy"; "School, part time, Cotton Roving Frame Doffer."

6. RETIRED OR PENSIONED.—If retired or pensioned state the fact, and add former Occupation, as "Retired Farmer," "Retired Butcher," "Police Pensioner," etc. The present occupation, if any, of pensioners should also be stated in all cases, as "Army Pensioner, Bank Porter," etc.

7. PRIVATE MEANS.—For persons neither following nor having followed a profession or occupation, but deriving their income from private sources, or allowances, write "Private Means."

8. VAGUE OR INDEFINITE TERMS MUST NOT BE USED ALONE, such for example as Apprentice, Assistant, Canvasser, Collector, Contractor, Foremen, Inspector, Labourer, Machinist, Manager, Manufacturer, Mechanic, Millhand, Overlooker, Superintendent (see also paragraphs a to r below). Care should be taken that no occupational name common to different industries is used without a full and distinctive description; an Enameller should be described as a "Pottery Enameller," "Watch-dial Enameller," "Cycle Enameller," etc.; a Painter as a "Painter (Artist)," "Ship Painter," "House Painter," etc.; a Rivetter, as a "Boiler Rivetter," "Ship Plate Rivetter," "Boot Rivetter," etc.

(a) ARMY, NAVY, CIVIL SERVICE, MUNICIPAL SERVICE, ETC. State the service and rank or grade.

MEMORANDUM TO ENUMERATORS ON THE SUBJECT OF OCCUPATIONS.

1. Study and Revision of Schedule.—The Enumerator is reminded of his duty to study the instructions and examples on the Schedule, and to acquaint himself with the manner in which it should be filled up, in order that he may be competent to answer questions that may be put to him, and to revise the Schedules at the time of collection.

The Enumerator must carefully examine every Schedule returned to him. In the case of defective Schedules, he must ask the Occupier to add any particulars that may be necessary, or to furnish such information as will enable him to complete the Schedule himself. Care in this respect will probably save the Enumerator trouble and loss of time, as in case of an incomplete Schedule he may be required by the Registrar to revisit the house and obtain the missing particulars.

Column 10.

PERSONAL OCCUPATION.

2. Nature of Information required in Column 10.—This Column corresponds with that relating to Occupations on previous occasions.

The following instructions appear at the head of this Column in the Schedule :—

"The reply should show the precise branch of Profession, Trade, Manufacture, etc."

"If engaged in any Trade or Manufacture, the particular kind of work done, and the Article made or Material worked or dealt in, should be clearly indicated."

These instructions, as well as those on the back of the Schedule, have been framed with a view to obtaining sufficient information to enable the Census Clerks to classify every entry in Column 10 of the Schedule under the proper occupational heading, and the Enumerator must, therefore, assure himself that all the replies are in conformity with the instructions.

3. Types of Unsatisfactory Information in Column 10.

(a.) Vague terms are used which must either be replaced by entirely new descriptions of the Occupations, or must be made satisfactory by the addition of further information.

(b.) Terms common to different industries are used without the addition of the necessary distinctive description. The full and distinctive description must in all cases be added.

(c.) Descriptions are used which do not show whether the persons are connected with Producing businesses, Selling businesses, or Storing businesses. In such cases the reply must indicate the class of business and the department in which the person works.

(d.) Descriptions are used which do not show both the article or kind of goods made and the material worked or dealt in. Where articles (e.g., Bags, Boxes, Hats) are made of different materials, or when materials are made into different commodities, each kind of manufacture being a distinct trade (e.g., Glass into Glass Bottles, Sheet and Plate Glass, Flint Glass Wares), both the material and the article or kind of goods made must be stated in Column 10.

5. Engineering and Metal Trades.—In the Census it is desired to have statistics as to workers connected with :—

Pig Iron Manufacture (Blast Furnaces),
Puddling Furnaces and Rolling Mills,
Steel Smelting and Founding,
Iron Founding,
and various Iron Goods Manufactures.

In many cases the same occupational names are used in more than one of these industries, and such words as " at Blast Furnace," " at Rolling Mills," " at Puddling Furnace," " at Steel Foundry," " Steel Smelting " " at Iron Foundry," must therefore be added to the ordinary description : the Enumerator will understand that " Ironworker " is a useless expression unless the kind of iron works in which the person is employed is also stated.

The answer in Column 10 should in all cases indicate whether the person is engaged in the manufacture of a metal, i.e., converting, smelting, refining, or rolling, or in making goods from a metal (e.g., it is necessary to distinguish the persons making tin plates from the persons making goods out of tin plates). When metal goods are made, both the metal and the kind of goods or metal trade should be stated.

Another point to which the Enumerator's attention is requested is the use of the words " Engineer," " Electrical Engineer," and " Electrician." It should be shown whether these persons belong to the engineering profession or are engaged in making engines and machinery, in using or driving them, or in fitting electrical apparatus, etc.

6. Coal Mining.—The Enumerator must see that sufficient information is given in Column 10 for Colliery Workers to be correctly classed as " Workers at Coal Face," "Other workers below ground," or " Workers above ground." So many terms are equally applicable to below-ground and above-ground workers, that it is necessary in the case of Colliery Horsekeepers, Horse-Drivers, Ostlers, Inclinemen, Haulage Engine Tenters, Pumpmen, Belt Boys, Way Cleaners, Oilers, Greasers, etc. to add the words " below ground " or " above ground," so as to leave no doubt as to where the person is mainly employed. Such terms as Coal Miner and Collier must not be used without full description of kind of work done.

7. Farmers, Farm Servant.—Every Occupier of land whose principal occupation is that of a " Farmer " or " Grazier " should state this fact, employing one or other of these terms. Sons or other Relatives (male and female) of Farmers, if assisting in the work of the farm, should be returned as " Farmer's Son working on Farm," " Farmer's Brother working on Farm," " Farmer's Daughter, Dairy Work," etc. Agricultural Labourers, and Farm Servants (not being Domestic Servants) should state the nature of their work and indicate by such terms as " Carter on Farm," " Cattleman on Farm," whether their main employment is the working or tending of horses, or the tending or management of cattle, etc. Where the work on the farm is of a general character and does not permit of any distinction being made, the term " Farm Servant " or " Agricultural Labourer " should be used. The term " Labourer " must of course not be used alone.

The Enumerator must take care where specific names such as " Wagoner," " Carter," " Horse-keeper," " Teamster," " Cattleman," " Cowman " are employed for workers on farms that they are invariably followed by the words " on Farm," and that Hinds are described as " Hind—Farm Bailiff," " Hind—Farm Foreman," " Hind in charge of horses," " Spade Hind," " Hind—Ordinary Farm Servant," etc., according to nature of employment, as the meaning of the term " Hind " varies according to the district in which it is used.

8. Seagoing Workers.—If a person follows his occupation on the Sea, the fact should be clearly indicated on the Schedule, preferably by the addition of such words as " Seagoing," " Steamship," or " Merchant Service." The word " Ship " is frequently used with Occupational names in connexion with the construction of ships and boats, and is therefore not sufficiently descriptive.

Column 11.

INDUSTRY OR SERVICE WITH WHICH THE WORKER IS CONNECTED.

9. Object of the Inquiry.—The question in Column 11 appears in the Census Schedule for the first time. At this Census it is desired not only to obtain information with regard to personal Occupation but also as to the various industries in connexion with which these occupations are pursued.

10. Cases in which information is required in Column 11.—In many instances an adequate description of the occupation implies the industry, and no entry is then required in Column 11, but in other cases special information is required as to industry. These cases may be arranged under the following headings :—

(1.) Persons engaged in an occupation from which the industry cannot be inferred.
(2.) Persons engaged in an occupation connected with an industry other than that with which the occupation is usually connected.
(3.) Persons engaged in industries carried on as auxiliary to other industries.
(4.) Persons in the employ of firms carrying on two or more industries of which none can be said to be auxiliary to another.
(5.) Persons engaged in the service of the Government or of Local Authorities.

11. Persons engaged in an occupation from which the industry cannot be inferred.—Some occupations followed by persons not actually engaged in processes of production are common to nearly all organised industries. Such terms as Clerk, Book-keeper, Store-keeper, Time-keeper, Carter, Carman, Vanman, Warehouseman, Packer, Engine Driver, Messenger, Porter, Watchman, etc. do not usually imply any specific industry. In these cases an entry must be made in Column 11 unless the distinctive description added in Column 10 is a clear indication of the industry with which the worker is connected.

12. Persons engaged in an occupation connected with an industry other than that with which the occupation is usually connected.—The principal occupations are those connected with the upkeep of premises and the maintenance of plant and rolling-stock, many firms having their own workmen for these purposes, but there are few occupations which are not at times carried on in connexion with industries other than those with which they are usually connected.

Carpenters, Bricklayers, Masons, Plasterers, Painters, Plumbers, Gas Fitters, and their Labourers, usually in the employment of Builders or other Masters in the Building Trades ; Engineering Fitters, Metal Machinists, and other workers in occupations usually connected with Engineering Works ; Wood Sawyers, Wood Machinists, and other Timber Trade workers may all be following their occupations in the direct employment of Manufacturers, Traders, Government Departments, Local Authorities, Railway and other Carrying Companies, etc.

In all such cases information as to the precise nature of the industry or service with which the worker is connected is required for Column 11, such as Colliery, Alkali Works, Cotton Spinners or Spinning, Government Dockyard, Corporation Gas Works, Urban District Council Tramways, Railway Company's Wagon Works, Building Department of Shipping Company or Docks Company. The Enumerator must realise that it is essential that such descriptions should be inserted in addition to full details of the personal occupation, as otherwise only an erroneous deduction can be drawn from the particulars given.

13. Persons engaged in Industries carried on as auxiliary to other Industries.—In these cases the precise branch of the auxiliary Trade, Manufacture, etc., showing the particular kind of work done, and the Article made or Material worked in, should be clearly indicated in Column 10, and the Industry or Service to which it is auxiliary in Column 11 : thus for persons engaged in Tin Box Making and Lithographing, Wooden Box Making, Wooden Packing Case Making, Basket Making, Iron Hamper Making, Cardboard Box Making, Printing, Lithography, Bookbinding, etc., carried on as auxiliary to some Trade or Manufacture, the full description of the personal occupation must be given in Column 10 in accordance with the instructions at the head of that Column and the kind of business carried on by the employer in Column 11 as :—

Column 10.	Column 11.
Iron Hamper Maker, Machineman	Alkali Works.

Other examples of auxiliary industries are :—

The making of Envelopes, Paper Cases, Leather Cases in Needle Factories, of Textile Machinery Fittings in Textile Factories, of Type in Printing Works, of Bolts, Nuts, and Rivets in Engineering and other Works, and of Cotton, Wool, Worsted, Hemp, etc. Yarn in Carpet Factories ; Saw Mills run as Department of Engineering Works and Railway Wagon Works ; Clay Mining, etc. carried on by Earthenware Manufacturers and Cement Manufacturers, Brickmaking by Colliery Companies, Iron and Steel Manufacturers, etc. ; Malting by Brewers ; and so on.

In connexion with Railway Service, there are various undertakings such as Steamships, Hotels, Catering, Engineering Works, Carriage and Wagon Works. Shipping Companies and Harbour, Dock, etc. Services also have various undertakings carried on in connexion with them. The Enumerator should be on the alert to make sure that all workers in the Services mentioned are duly stated in the Schedules as employed in such Services.

14. Persons in the employ of firms carrying on two or more industries of which none can be said to be auxiliary to another.—For example :—Machinery and Shipbuilding ; Small-arms and Cycles ; Cycles and Motor Vehicles ; Motor Vehicles and Horse-drawn Vehicles ; Soap, Manure, and Candles.

If in such cases the Manufactures or Industries are carried on in separate establishments or in separate departments thereof, the nature of the manufacture or industry carried on in the separate establishment or department in which the worker is employed should be stated in Column 11. When the Manufactures or Industries are not separated, or when the personal occupation is in connexion with two or more of them, there is no alternative but for the various Manufactures or Industries to be stated in Column 11 in the order of their importance.

15. Persons engaged in the Service of the Government or of Local Authorities.—In the case of all Workers in the Manufacturing and Storing Departments of the Government, the Enumerator must take care that to the description of Employment such particulars as " Post Office Telegraph Works," " Royal Gun Factory," " Royal Carriage Department," " Royal Laboratory," " Royal Small-arms Factory," " Royal Gunpowder Factory," " Royal Army Clothing Factory," " Government Dockyard," " Government Victualling Yard " are added. In the case of Persons employed in the Post Office Telegraph and Telephone Services, Enumerators should see that the words " Post Office " always appear, so that such workers may be distinguished from those in private employment.

All Workers for Local Authorities should be clearly distinguished. The principal Local Authorities are :—

(1.) County Councils ;
(2.) Borough and District Councils ;
(3.) Poor Law Authorities.

All County Councils and some Borough and District Councils are also Education Authorities. Some of the Authorities have undertakings such as Cemeteries, Public Libraries, Markets, Baths and Wash-houses, Working Class Dwellings, Municipal Lodging Houses, Milk Depôts, Waterworks, Gas Works, Electricity Supply, Telephones, Tramways, Harbours, Docks, Canals, Piers, Quays, Ferries, and in Works of Construction. The Enumerator must see that persons in the service of the Local Authorities, whatever may be their occupation, are entered in the Census Schedules as being in the employment of these Local Authorities, and that if they are engaged in any of their special undertakings, the nature of the undertaking is also duly recorded. Examples :—

The Registrar-General recognises that the requirements of the Census Schedule in regard to " Industry or Service with which Worker is connected " may be the cause of a certain amount of trouble to some Enumerators, but he trusts he may rely on the hearty co-operation of every Officer to make this new feature in the Census successful.

INSTRUCTIONS CONTAINED IN SUPPLEMENTARY MEMORANDA :

(A.) MINING AND QUARRYING.

Column 10.

Persons engaged in mining, quarrying, and related occupations will be grouped in the Census Report under the following headings :—

Coal and Shale Mine—Workers at the coal face.
,, ,, Other Workers below ground.
,, ,, Workers above ground.

Clay, Sand, Gravel, Chalk—Labourers.
Other Workers in Products of Quarries.

It is necessary, therefore, that the information written in Column 10 should clearly indicate in every instance to which of the above classes the worker belongs. All workers in or about mines or quarries must state the kind of mine or quarry worked in.

Attention is directed, moreover, to Instruction 8 on the back of the Schedule, which states that :—

" Vague or indefinite terms must not be used alone . . . . . Care should be taken that no occupational name common to different industries is used without a full and distinctive description."

Such a description as " Miner " (frequently returned) or " Coal Miner " does not enable the Census Clerks to determine which of the headings in the above list the worker belongs to. Even the term " Collier " is not sufficiently precise, as it does not in all districts imply work at the coal face.

The occupational terms popularly used in connexion with mining, quarrying, and allied industries are numerous, and for the purposes of the Census many of them, if used alone, are quite inadequate. Some of them are not restricted to any particular branch of mining or quarrying ; some of those relating to coal mining are applied both to workers below and workers above ground ; while other terms again may refer to different occupations in different districts. The same term (e.g., haulier) is sometimes even used in the same district to describe certain mine or quarry workers as well as other workers in no way connected with these industries.

The following examples of such vague or inadequate terms (which have all been used at previous Censuses by mine or quarry workers as the sole description of their occupations) are given as illustrating defective descriptions to be avoided except when supplemented by additional information on the lines indicated below :—

Column 11.

While Column 10 refers to the worker's personal occupation, Column 11 has reference to the industry in which or in connexion with which he is engaged. In many instances an adequate description of the occupation implies the industry, and no entry is then required in Column 11, but in other cases special information is required as to industry.

Many workers employed at mines and quarries are engaged in—

(1) Occupations which are common to many industries; for example, clerks, carters, watchmen.

(In these cases no inference as to industry can be drawn from Column 10.)

(2) Occupations usually associated with some industry other than mining or quarrying; for example, bricklayers, painters, shunters.

(In these cases only a misleading inference as to industry can be drawn from Column 10.)

In such cases there would be no means of associating the worker with mining or quarrying without the information asked for in Column 11.

A statement of the employer's business will nearly always convey the information sought in Column 11. If the employer carries on more than one branch of business, that branch, of course, should be returned with which the worker is connected. The nature of the entries required may be further gathered from the following examples :—

Column 10.	Column 11.

,, Printing.
,, Dyeing.
,, Calendering, Finishing, etc.

It is necessary, therefore, that the information written in Column 10 should clearly indicate in every instance to which of the above classes the worker belongs.

Attention is directed, moreover, to Instruction 8 on the back of the Schedule, which states that :—

"Vague and indefinite terms must not be used alone . . . . . Care should be taken that no occupational name common to different industries is used without a full and distinctive description."

The occupational terms popularly used in connexion with textile and allied industries are numerous, and for the purposes of the Census many of them, if used alone, are quite inadequate. Some of them are not only common to several kinds of textile trades or manufactures and even to different departments in the same industry, but are also used in connexion with non-textile businesses, while others have one meaning in one locality and a different meaning in another.

It is essential, therefore, that the reply on the Census Schedule should show the precise branch of trade, manufacture, etc., the particular kind of work done, and the article made or material worked or dealt in. Where articles are made of different materials, and where materials are made into different commodities, both the article made and the material worked or dealt in should be indicated.

When a person follows an occupation, or is described by an occupational name, common to two or more departments, the nature of the department or room should be added; thus bobbin carriers, cloth carriers, creelers, doffers, winders, reelers, spoolers, for example, should always give a clear indication of the process or department or room with which they are connected.

Persons employed as boxers, bundlers, folders, makers-up, packers, etc., should state whether they are engaged in the warehouse departments of spinning, weaving, or other textile factories, or in bleaching, printing, dyeing, finishing, etc. works.

The following are examples of terms commonly occurring in descriptions of occupations, which require to be supplemented by additional particulars on the lines indicated in the complete descriptions set out against them :—

Column 11.

While Column 10 refers to the worker's personal occupation, Column 11 has reference to the industry in which or in connexion with which he is engaged. In many instances an adequate description of the occupation implies the industry, and no entry is then required in Column 11, but in other cases special information is required as to industry.

Many workers employed in textile factories and warehouses are engaged in—

(1) Occupations which are common to many industries ; for example, clerks, carters, watchmen.
(In these cases no inference as to industry can be drawn from Column 10.)

(2) Occupations usually associated with some industry other than textile ; for example, bricklayers, painters, engineer's fitters.

(3) Occupations auxiliary to textile manufacture which may be carried on in textile factories or independently ; such are the preparation of textile machinery fittings, engraving for calico printers.
(In cases (2) and (3) only a misleading inference as to industry can be drawn from Column 10.)

In such cases there would be no means of associating the worker with textile manufacture without the information asked for in Column 11.

A statement of the employer's business will nearly always convey the information sought in Column 11. If the employer carries on more than one branch of business, that branch, of course, should be returned with which the worker is connected. The nature of the entries required may be further gathered from the following examples :—

It is necessary, therefore, that the information written in Column 10 should clearly indicate in every instance to which of the above classes the worker belongs.

Attention is directed, moreover, to Instruction 8 on the back of the Schedule, which states that :—

The reply on the Census Schedule should show the precise branch of trade, manufacture, etc., and the particular kind of work done, the article made, or material worked or dealt in. Where articles are made of different metals, or where metals are made into different commodities, each kind of manufacture being a distinct trade, both the metal and the article or kind of goods made must be stated in Column 10.

The answer in Column 10 should, in all cases, indicate whether the person is engaged in the manufacture, i.e., converting, smelting, refining, or rolling of a metal, or in making goods from a metal (e.g., it is necessary to distinguish the persons making tin plates from those making goods out of tin plates).

In many cases similar occupational names are used by workers connected with :—

Pig Iron Manufacture (Blast Furnaces),
Puddling Furnaces and Rolling Mills,
Steel Smelting and Founding,
Iron Founding,
and various Iron Goods Manufactures.

For this reason, it is very desirable that such words as " at Blast Furnace," " at Rolling Mills," " at Puddling Furnace," " at Steel Foundry," " Steel Smelting," " at Iron Foundry," be added to the ordinary description if it does not unmistakeably show in which industry the person works. Words such as " Ironworker," " Iron Works," and " Steel Works " are not sufficiently distinctive, and should not be used unless the kind of work is also stated.

When the words " Engineer," Electrical Engineer," and " Electrician " are used in the Census Schedule they should always be supplemented by such information as will signify whether the person belongs to the engineering profession, or is engaged in making engines and machinery, in using or driving them, or in fitting electrical apparatus, etc.

In describing the occupations of Seagoing Engineers and Electricians, such terms as " Seagoing," " Steamship," or " Merchant Service " should in all cases be employed.

The following are examples of terms commonly occurring in descriptions of occupations, which require to be supplemented by additional particulars on the lines indicated in the complete descriptions set out against them :—

Warehouse Man, etc. ...	Warehouseman, Lock Factory; Ironmonger's Warehouseman; Warehouse Girl, Electro-plate Works.

Column 11.

While Column 10 refers to the worker's personal occupation, Column 11 has reference to the industry in which or in connexion with which he is engaged. In many instances an adequate description of the occupation implies the industry, and no entry is then required in Column 11, but in other cases special information is required as to industry.

Many workers employed in factories, workshops, warehouses, etc., are engaged in :—

(1) Occupations which are common to many industries, for example, clerks, carters, watchmen.

(In these cases no inference as to industry can be drawn from Column 10.)

(2) Occupations usually associated with some industry other than the particular engineering, metal, or other trade in which they are employed; for example, bricklayers, carpenters, house-painters.

(3) Occupations auxiliary to engineering, metal, etc. trades, which may be carried on in connexion with such industries, but are usually carried on independently: such as brickmaking in connexion with iron and steel manufacture, wooden box making in connexion with tinplate manufacture, the making of wooden packing cases, leather cases, paper cases, etc., in connexion with several metal industries.

(In cases (2) and (3) only a misleading inference as to industry can be drawn from Column 10.)

In such cases there would be no means of associating the worker with the engineering, metal, or other trade, without the information asked for in Column 11.

Persons following engineering, metal, etc. trades, but employed in connexion with industries other than their own, or in government, local government, railway, dock, etc. service, should invariably state their personal occupation fully in Column 10, and the industry or service in which they are employed in Column 11.

A statement of the employer's business will nearly always convey the information sought in Column 11. If the employer carries on more than one branch of business, that branch, of course, should be returned with which the worker is connected.

When the personal occupation is in connexion with two or more of them, there is no alternative but for the various manufactures or industries to be stated in Column 11 in the order of their importance. The nature of the entries required may be further gathered from the following examples :—
